GCMHC asks Supervisors for increase in funding

by JAKE JACOB

The Gulf Coast Mental Health Center, supported in part by Hancock County taxpayers, on Monday asked the supervisors to hike its share of the county tax income from 1.25 to 2.0 mills.

On current assessment, such an increase would provide some $80 to $82,000 to the organization for its 1977-78 operations.

"We are asking you to consider the two mills the state law allows," Dr. Roger O. Fox, GCMHC, requested, speaking for his director, Dr. James Stewart, whose duties had prevented his appearance.

Dr. Fox said the regional program is providing the county with a full range of mental health services. "You get more for your dollar in the regional program," he said.

He explained the federal government provided the funding to get the program started but now federal funds are decreasing.

Fox specifically mentioned the activities of the Silver Creek School for exceptional children, an institution he said that would be increasing its enrollment from 24 to 30 this fall, and the toll free telephone line operating on a 24 hour a day basis, as mainline GCMHC services.

The budget was the last to be received by the supervisors who are to set the mill rate and present the county budget at their session on August 15.

Port Director Wilson Webre of the county port commission prior to presenting actual matters of new business beseeched the supervisors to refrain from lobbying any dollars from his agency's budget submitted last month.

"We understand the board is wrestling with the funding but ask them not to reduce our requested budget."

"As indicated we submitted a 'no fat' budget," Webre continued to an uncommittal board.

Switching to more current topics, Webre said, "We may as well face it, there is serious discussion about the continuation of the Global contract."

Nonpayment of utility bills concerns council

by JERRY WHITTLE

Approximately 10 per cent of users of the City of Bay St. Louis' utility system are delinquent in payment of their bills to the tune of $50,206.38 and the BSL City Council has taken steps to collect or discontinue service to those behind in payments.

Action on the matter came last Tuesday night at the regular meeting of the local governing body after the above report by Mayor Larry Bennett. The matter had apparently been given a great deal of prior thought by the council and a motion was passed later in the meeting to send notices to all customers at the next billing date.

The motion, introduced by Councilman Fred Wagner, read as follows:

MOTION: That the next utilities bills to all customers include a notice with the following statement:

"Your new City Council has discovered that nearly 10 percent of our Utilities System customers are in arrears on their accounts. The total past due accounts is nearly $50,000. Your utility system is a business and must be run on a businesslike basis. We cannot continue to serve customers who do not pay their bill. Your City Council has instructed the Utilities System staff to comply with the ordinance which requires that all customers over 30 days in arrears shall have service cut off. We hate to take such drastic action but to not do so is irresponsible and unfair to the majority of our citizens who pay their bills on time."

Pipeline Company, and we have no control over the price they charge us. Their price to us was increased by 17.5 percent on July 1, 1977. They have advised us that the price will increase again by a comparable amount before winter weather sets in. We cannot pay for this gas except by charging comparable increases to you, the Utility System customers. Before winter comes, your City Council will be investigating ways to adjust gas rates to make these increases as easy as possible for our citizens."

Tornado strikes Ansley

by JERRY WHITTLE

The third reported tornado of the year was recorded last Monday evening in the Ansley Community, southwest of Lakeshore. No injuries were reported and damage was limited to destruction of a utility building, minor damage to a nearby mobile home and several trees uprooted.

The latest storm struck at approximately 7:30 p.m. Monday at the L.J. Davis residence, Rt. 2, Bay St. Louis, on the Lower Bay Road.

Davis' recently completed utility shed was struck by the storm and tossed some 100 feet to the rear of his mobile home. Davis said he had just returned to his home, from the shed, when the storm struck. He stated, "I didn't know about the damage until it was all over and came back out side. I (continued on page 4)

Bay-Waveland School Board accepts budget

The Trustees of the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District unanimously approved the school budget for the 1977-78 school term in the amount of $1,892,456 at a recessed meeting held on July 19, as presented by J. D. McCullough, Superintendent of City Schools.

The new budget will be financed through $1,026,750 in State Minimum Program funds, $737,228 Local funds, and $128,478 Federal funds. McCullough stated that this budget includes the new salary scale passed by the 1977 legislature, which ranges from $8,700 for a beginning teacher holding a Class A certificate through $13,600 for Class AAA with 14 years of experience.

The budget also includes a cost of living increment of 8 percent for all non-certified personnel.

McCullough added that an extensive maintenance program is under way at this time getting the schools of the district ready for the opening date of August 15, with special emphasis being placed on a new athletic field for the Waveland Center.

Buffer zone is must for NASA NSTL, Hlass claims

by JAKE JACOB

The NASA buffer zone in Hancock County will not be returned to a habitat status, at least if Jerry Hlass, manager, NASA NSTL, has his way.

Hlass told a group of Hancock, Harrison, and Pearl River County, and St. Tammany Parish officials, Tuesday that to lose the buffer zone is for NSTL to lose its competitive advantage in the testing of rockets and rocket components producing up to 15 million pounds of thrust.

He said the buffer zone provides the base with a test capability not available elsewhere and to lose it will be to lose this advantage.

The NSTL manager allowed NASA was engaged in a study of present and foreseeable future requirements to determine if this attitude should be maintained.

The study, he said, consists of ongoing acoustical measurements taken during the shuttle motor test firings, an input from NASA, Washington, as to their future requirements, and requests to the Departments of the Army and Navy to ascertain if their requirements will include a lean on the buffer acreage.

Hlass plain-talked through an outline of the NSTL current role, its impact, and projected future.

The occasion was a "get acquainted" session one, he said, he wanted to have sooner. He indicated the necessity to plan programs and stabilize operations, since his arrival last year, had led to the delay.

After outlining his background, Hlass told of progress being made in the space shuttle engine development test work, and gave an overview of the shuttle's advantages over the single purpose rocket.

Areas advanced where such a space vehicle will reap substantial dividends include: the placing of satellites into geosynchronous orbit for such tasks as communications relay and meteorologic reporting; space as a component transporter for construction of a space station; and as a platform for earth resources observations.

Hlass stressed the emphasis now being applied to the development of the delay.

New 16th Section lease policies endorsed by county supervisors

by JAKE JACOB

Sixteenth Section school lands in Hancock County on Monday received a new set of leasing guidelines as the result of the supervisors endorsing a set of policies spread onto the minutes of the county school board last month.

Leases under the new scheme of things will fall into four basic types: agriculture, homesite, industrial, recreational.

Apart from this, lands of suitable size and quality will be put into the forestry management program and utilized by the school system to gain funds from timber sales.

All leases will be negotiated under the new guidelines once existing agreements fall due for renewal.

Under the new policies, agricultural leases will be granted for a period of five years on lands suited for row crop farming or pasture on which there is not a homesite.

The lease will be by competitive bids with the leaseholder of record having the option of meeting the highest bid and retaining use of the property. (As an alternate to the competitive bidding, the land appraisal system will be utilized).

Homesite leases will be made for a period of 25 years at six percent of the appraised market value, exclusive of buildings or improvements. Half of the appraisal costs both on new and renewal leases, shall be paid by the lessee, and half by the county.

Industrial leases will also be for 25 years at six percent of appraised fair market value, with the option to renew on reappraisal.

Recreational land leases are limited to agreements between the supervisors and the school board, and shall be for a period of 25 years.

Superintendent of Education Terrell Randolph, after receiving the supervisor's endorsement on the land policies, switched tactics and quizzed the supervisors regarding garbage dumps and sand and gravel pits on 16th Section lands.

Should such be present, Randolph claimed, the school system should be deriving revenues from their operation or they may have to be closed.

Diamondhead skyjacking bid thwarted

by JAKE JACOB

Shots were exchanged early Monday morning between alert Diamondhead security forces and would be skyjackers.

The skyjacking, according to airport manager Eagan Carroll, are now being sought by both the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Federal Aviation Administration.

Carroll said two aircraft were involved in the operation. One, the "spotter" remained circling overhead, while the other, with three men aboard, landed on the Diamondhead strip.

The action began around 1:15 a.m. when the sound of aircraft landing was heard.

The plane, a twin engine Beechcraft, disgorged two of its occupants, who ran Richard Foyard for the petition, vacated by Greg Richardson. He was hired by a unanimous vote of the council and his salary was set the same as Richardson.

WEBB CENTER

Darell Chabna met with the council and asked if the council would consider selling him the Webb Center. He stated he had two projects in mind for usage of the center, one as a home for the elderly and the other a school of music for teachers. He noted the purchase, if approved by the council, would depend on the cost and financing. The matter was taken under advisement by the council.

PLANNING

Vic Frankiewicz, Jr., a city planner by profession, discussed short and long range planning for the city. He urged the council, who had asked for his appearance and advice, to seriously consider their future by planning programs and taking advantage of several agencies who would offer their services free of charge. The council thanked Frankiewicz for his recommendations and noted they may ask for his advice in the future.

MAYOR'S REPORT

Mayor Bennett reported GRPC and MRDC have started their work on an administrative study of the city's departments.

He announced the Police Department has been moved from the VJ building to the former location behind the gym at the VJ building. The mayor praised several people, including Chief Douglas Williams and his wife, for their work and assistance in getting the building back in order for occupation.

OVERPASS

Following a general discussion, the council agreed to meet with the state highway department next week to determine the location of the overpass on Hwy. 90 near Dunbar Ave. The city has received approval of $50,000 in EDA funds from Governor Cliff Finch; approved $15,000 in city funds and received $15,000 from the Hancock County Board of Supervisors for the project. The total of $80,000 is still some $20,000 short of the needed $100,000 (estimated), but Mayor Bennett stated he might be able to obtain additional funding from two sources. He did not give any details. Councilman Harry Farve had questioned the council as to where the additional $20,000 would come from and the mayor responded.

Charley Hill, representing Burk & Associates, fielded several questions about the project. Councilman Wagner asked for additional information on the overpass project since the new council had not been informed completely on the subject.

MAIN STREET PROJECT

The council gave Mayor Bennett the go ahead on signing the work order on the Main Street Project. Engineering inspection will be made by Burk & Associates and the city's street superintendent, who will be instructed by Burk. The council had asked that Burk reduce the engineer inspection fee as much as possible and Hill said the fee would be between $2,900 and $3,700. He added he felt they would be able to hold the cost to the lower figure. Hill was also asked for a set of plans and other information on the project so that the new council could study the project.

PUBLISHING DOCKETS

The council passed a resolution asking that the City School Board, Parks & Playgrounds, along with the city, make public their claim dockets and budgets by posting in three locations. Councilman James Thriffliey introduced the motion for the resolution, seconded by Councilman Wagner, and the matter was approved by a unanimous vote.

The three locations will be city hall, courthouse and city-county library. Thriffliey said he felt the information should be posted monthly and then filed at the end of the year so that reference could be made if needed.

SOLID WASTE

Paul Demeras presented a slide presentation on recycling of solid waste. He said his company would like to act as a consulting firm for the city. The matter was taken under advisement by the council.

OTHER BUSINESS

The council voted to pay the mayor, councilmen and city clerk two-thirds out of the general fund and one-third out of the utility fund and also for Mr. Biennu to be paid one-half from each. This was in regards to normal payment of salaries.

Passed an order approving a supplement to the supplement of the 1976 assessment roll. This was to correct a computer error.

Approved the claim docket. All members of the council were present except Councilman Peter Benvenuti who was out of town on vacation.

Smith death due natural causes

Death from natural causes was on Tuesday cited as an autopsy finding on the body of Buford Smith, 51, of Picaune, found dead Sunday morning, face down in the woods near the Catahoula dump.

Smith, in company of his cousin Emmett R. Smith and a friend, H.E. Lumpkin, 46, also of Picaune, left that city early that day, "to go to breakfast."

Reports state the trio were involved in a drinking party which moved into Hancock County about 9:30 a.m.

The car in which the group were traveling became bogged in the Bienville area, and after failing to free it from the mud they decided to walk through the woods to Highway 43 in an attempt to get help.

Buford Smith said at that time, estimated to be about 10 a.m., that he would remain in the vicinity of the vehicle as he did not feel well.

Upon their return with assistance, they found Smith face down in the woods. The body had scratch marks on the arms and legs, similar to those incurred by people walking through brush, and an extensive evidence of blood in the facial area.

Sheriff's Deputies E.J. Cuevas, Gus Cuevas, and Leo Woods, conducted the initial investigation. They were later joined at the scene by Sheriff Sylvan Ladner and Deputy MacCowan.

Ladner said he had "closed the case file" following receipt of the autopsy report.

Hancock Coroner Carl Banderet said that he had not suspected foul play but ordered the autopsy to determine the cause of death.

16th Section...

responded they had dumps on 16th Section lands, dumps they were maintaining for the benefit of the county.

All three promptly volunteered to turn the operation over to Randolph and let him and the school system operate them or close down and fence them off whichever they preferred.

Randolph declined to accept the dump management proposal even though leaving the door open in the event the school district "can utilize" the dumps, or if their presence hinders it from leasing adjacent 16th Section lands.

Switching to the sand and gravel suggestion, Kellar said he was obtaining some fill dirt from dump on 16th Section land, some of which had been utilized for work done at Hancock North Central School.

Kellar said that the amount of dirt involved would not provide income to the school system to cover the cost of postage stamps for one week.

Supervisor Courge quickly stated that if Randolph got him an order from the school board to clean the dump he would continue to send his equipment in to do the work.

"If you don't get this resolution I won't touch it," he added.

Peterson was just as adamant, asking if Randolph wanted the dumps back "this morning."

Peterson further reminded the education superintendent that all the supervisors can legally do for the school district is aid in construction and maintenance of roads, driveways, and parking lots.

Courge, who made the motion to accept the new 16th Section leasing policies, also reminded Randolph that he has hauled some 400 loads of dirt into Gulfview School that did not come off 16th Section lands.

Kellar said he was spending hundreds of dollars a month keeping the dump operating and was willing to cease immediately.

Further, he said, he did not cut the timber off the land to make room for the dump - also a Randolph suggestion, (Hurricane) Camille blew it over and the dump "just happened," Kellar remarked.

Courge said he inherited the dump and would continue to clean it if asked but he was not going to pay to lease the dump, and then pay to clean it.

At the start of his questioning concerning 16th Section land usage, Randolph said his remarks were the result of information sought of him by the Legislative Audit Committee.

In other matters, John Scafide, Jr., attorney, Hancock Planning Commission, said the Federal Insurance Commission had announced its intention to include several creeks throughout the county as falling within the flood hazard area.

He said advertising advising homeowners of which areas are affected will be undertaken shortly.

Circuit Clerk Henry Otis said that a new recording device connected to his office telephone, that transmits instructions to jurors telephoning to see when they should appear in court, has already resulted in a saving to the county of $1455. This he said was in jury fees that would have been paid these jurors during the last session of court, under the old system of operation. The machine cost $345, for a net gain of $1110.

The county acknowledged receipt of a check for $707.84 received from the Mississippi Power Co. for damage to timber incurred by the company while cutting a right of way through 16th Section lands.

Finally, Chancery Clerk John Rutherford, Jr., was told by Education Superintendent Randolph that advertising for mineral leases on school lands would begin shortly.

Forests For Good Hunting

That's what International Paper Company's well-managed forests provide in addition to crops of trees.

We are very much interested in the future of wildlife and are aware of the recreational value you place on these lands.

At IP, our forest management practices include comprehensive wildlife management programs greatly benefiting the outdoor sportsman and hunter.

To provide a variety of good hunting by the public, some of our acreage is leased to state game and fish commissions which are charged with the responsibility of administration and wildlife management activities in the interest of public hunting. Some other areas are leased specifically to hunting and fishing clubs. In addition, we have company game management areas, which require special hunting permits.

Hunters who frequent our fee hunting areas can well appreciate the nominal charge and the benefits derived from well-protected and well-managed forests.

IP foresters and wildlife specialists utilize modern forest management techniques in our forests to provide wildlife with an abundance of food, adequate cover protection and a variety of accessible habitat. Timber cutting practices and prescribed burning are carried out to the maximum benefit of the growing of both timber and wildlife.

We want hunting to be a good thing on our lands.

For additional information concerning hunting and recreation on company lands write: International Paper Company, Rt. 2, Box 44, Pass Christian, Ms. 39571.

over to where an aircraft based at Diamondhead was parked.

Security forces approached the recently landed aircraft and began questioning the pilot as to his intentions.

The two men on the ground rushed the guard who promptly evaded their effort and ran to where his rifle was stored.

Running back to their plane, which sat ready for take-off with hot, revving engines, the two boarded and the plane began to move.

The guard, now in possession of his 30-30 rifle began pumping shells into the aircraft as it gained speed down the runway. He later said he had hoped to force the plane to land at a local airport such as Stennis Field or Gulfport.

The FAA was immediately contacted in an effort to register the escaping planes on the radar net, but without result.

The FBI was called into the case when it was determined the registration letters on the aircraft were false, leading to the speculation that it too was probably stolen.

Paul Montjoy, manager, Diamondhead, following the incident is reported as saying, "We do have reports of the attempt to land at our airport and steal something. We have made a thorough check and we find that no planes or no parts are missing."

"Whatever they were after they did not get."

Unconfirmed reports in circulation state increasing amounts of "controlled substances" maybe being brought into the country through the use of aircraft.

Corr named All District

Donald Corr of Waveland Post 77 of the American Legion baseball league was named to the All District Six team as a utility player after his performance in the American Legion tournament held in Biloxi recently.

Corr was the only Waveland player named to the team after his team was eliminated in two straight games with losses to Hattiesburg and Gulfport.

Biloxi, the winner of the tournament landed six players on the team with Hattiesburg adding four. There were four pitchers named to the All had gone to the shed to lock the door about two minutes before it hit." Davis said his mobile home had about four broken windows and some water damage from a leak, but no injuries were reported.

District team as well. The team was selected by the coaches of the participating teams: Biloxi, Waveland, Gulfport and Hattiesburg. Named to the team were: Doug Morrison, Dale Chatham, Barry Lyons, Bert Stevens, Robert Reeves, and David Martino, all of Biloxi. Representing Gulfport were: Glen Deweese, Wade Nations, David Croenne, and Frank Castiglia. Frank Wallace, Gary Pickering, Palmer, and Randy Thomley were the representatives of the Hattiesburg team named to the All District squad.

Across from the Davis residence a tree had fallen on a power line and several other trees in the same area were uprooted. A large tree at the Old St. Ann's Church (no longer in use) was uprooted, but fell to the side of the building. Limbs and branches were evident along several miles of the Lower Bay Road.

Other tornadoes struck the county this year, one at Bay St. Louis, where a church was destroyed, and another at Bordage's Fishing Camp, where several boat sheds were damaged.

Heavy rains, thunder and lightning were reported in most sections of the county Monday, but very little damage, other than in Ansley, was reported.

A BIG HAUL - Carl Gustafson, (R) owner of Sportsman's Paradise and Philip Mollere of Waveland display a fine catch made at South West Pass of the Mississippi River. Gustafson said that they had 500 lbs of fish which included reds, croakers, white trout and gaff top catfish, the haul was made Saturday a week ago.

SEA COAST L.A. AUGUST 4, 1975-A

Harvill outdoors

By Donald Harvill

467-4734

The salt-water fishing seems to have slackened off a little, probably because of the stiff westerly winds that we have been having and because of the many thunderstorms that have been passing over. Most of the fish that have been caught were caught close in, not too many people running to the marshes due to the unpredictable weather we've been having.

Wade fishermen have been making some nice catches of specks along the beach, mostly school trout.

The fresh-water fishing is improving. Because of the rain the water level in local ponds and bayous is rising some and the water temperature is starting to fall a bit. Although the water in some ponds has become slightly muddied as soon as the water clears the fishing should be better.

It was a sickening sight to see all those big redfish washed up on the beach in Clermont Harbor and Waveland.

Now is a good time to start practicing with the old shotgun, because teal season isn't too far away. It's usually in the middle of September. For the exact date check the information leaflet that can be picked up at most sporting goods stores.

One of the most important parts of your fishing tackle is the line, if your line is in bad shape you are more apt to lose that trophy than if your line is in tip-top condition. You should always check the line for weak spots especially at the end that drags along the bottom.

A boat isn't necessary to enjoy fishing in this area. There are a number of bayous and ponds around that you can easily drive to and then fish from their banks. Usually all that is needed to fish with is a cane pole and a can of worms.

ANSLEY: Fishing has been kind of light, but the fish being caught seem to be running larger than they have been.

There have been some nice catches of specks made around Halfmoon, Big Grassy, at the junction of Redfish Bayou and Three Oaks Bayou and in Polecat Bend. Rankin Lott caught a 24 lb. redfish. We have live and dead bait, ice, rental skiffs and various other accessories for the fisherman. We open at 5:00 a.m. every day. (Mrs. Toxie Hall, LaFrances Fishing Camp).

JOE'S BAYOU: The water up the river is real salty. People have been catching redfish on live bait at the railroad bridge, some running 10-15 lbs. Specks are still being caught up the river.

Some people from Hattiesburg struck a nice mess of flounders around Cedar Point, some went about 5 or 6 lbs. (Mrs. Allie Cospelich, Joe's Bayou Marina).

KILN: The rain has muddied the river slightly, but it has also raised the water and cooled it down some, so the fishing should be getting better. Stevie Haas and some friends caught 5 green-trout (bass) that ran about 3 lbs. apiece, they were caught in a local pond. Monvele Cuevas struggled with a catfish on a trotline for an hour and a half near McLeod Park. Monvele said that the catfish was about 4 1/2 feet long and he estimates that he weighed about 60 lbs. Wesley, Steven, Kevin Haas and Carl Olson caught 400 school trout on live bait near Mitchell Key. We have live worms, shrimp, crickets and minnows. We also have various other fishing tackle. We open at 5:00 a.m. and close at 6:00 p.m. (Andy Ladner, Andy's Bait Shop at Kiln Supermarket).

Bob Lyons caught 38 specks at the mouth of Rotten Bayou last week. Lyons says he was using a white beetle, he also says that the fish are really up the river.

Until next week: If you don't go fishing, you don't catch fish.

TWO YEARS AND 124 POUNDS LATER- After trying for two years to land a tarpon Dave Harvill finally made with a whopping 124 pounder. The fish measured 6' 7 1/2" and was caught on July 26 while Harvill was fishing with his brother Donald and Scott Hansey. (Photo by BOB HUBBARD)

HANCOCK COUNTY CANOE HOPEFULS WORKING HARD

Hancock Co. canoe races this Sunday

Veteran canoeists and beginners will compete for first place honors in this Sunday's First Annual Jourdan River Rally Canoe Race at McLeod Water Park near Kiln, Mississippi.

This race, the fifth leg of the Pearl River Boatway Canoe Racing Series being sponsored by the Pearl River Basin Development District and Pearl River Valley Development Association, is sponsored by the Kiln Jaycees. Series sponsor for the Jourdan River is the Wilderness Shop, Grumman canoe dealer of Gulfport.

Besides the canoe race, which will begin at 12 Noon, Race Chairman Eddie Ruzicka has planned such races, watermelon-eating, egg-throwing, and horseshoe-throwing contests. Ruzicka added that the new McLeod ballfield will be put to good use this weekend with a softball tournament beginning Saturday. The tournament will be for minor league and little league boys age 8-12.

Twenty trophies and 42 ribbons will be awarded to the first ten places in aluminum, fiberglass and open classes. Two additional trophies will be awarded to the best time by entrants aged 12-16 years.

The race course is approximately eight miles, beginning at the Low Water Bridge off of Texas Flatt Road on Catahoula Creek and finishing at McLeod Water Park.

Entry fee is $5 per person with a minimum age of 12 years. Entrants 18 years or under must sign a release or have a notarized release signed by a parent or guardian.

McLeod Water Park, located on Texas Flatt Road near Kiln, will be the center of activities and canoeists must report to the park first in order to be certified before being led to the starting point. The park, which was constructed by the Pearl River Basin Development District and the Hancock County Board of Supervisors, contains picnicking and boating facilities, a baseball field, comfort stations, and a nature trail.

Racers may sign up at McLeod Water Park on Race Day. For information and entry blanks, phone the Kiln Jaycees at 255-1881 or 255-1974, the Wilderness Shop at 898-6177, or Pearl River Basin Development District at 354-6301.

Ladner-Miller's finishes second

Ladner-Miller's softball team of Bay St. Louis participated in the Class B district tournament held last weekend in Piquette, Miss., finishing second to the Lounge of Gulfport.

In their first ballgame Saturday, Ladner-Miller's defeated the Piquette Merchants by the score of 15-10 in eight innings.

On Sunday, the Ladner-Miller's team played Jack McNeal and were defeated by a score of 12-10. Ladner-Miller's came back strong in the following game, defeating Sellers, 27-11. The Ladner-Miller's gang again had to play the Piquette Merchants and again were victorious by the score of 6-3. Again, their foe was the Jack-McNeal team, sponsored by Piquette. This time the Ladner-Miller's gang came through in championship form eliminating the Piquette team by a score of 8-5, putting them in the finals of the tournament. The Lounge of Gulfport, being well rested from having only played 2 games the entire day, proved to be the better team. Although the Ladner-Miller's gang played steady ball throughout the game, the long, hot day finally took its toll, they bowed to the Lounge by a score of 9-7.

Ladner-Miller's will advance by way of their second place finish to the Class B, State Championship Tournament being held in Starkville, Miss., Aug. 5, 6, 7. The Ladner-Miller's gang will play their first game of the tournament at 12:45 p.m. Friday against Central of Starkville. L&M gang has won 77 and lost 22 this year.

The challenges that may be met by consolidation

In the wake of a series of editorials aimed at encouraging a civic organization or elected body of substance to call a public meeting for the purpose of hearing pros and cons of school consolidation within the county, the two educational elements concerned dropped staggering budgets onto the taxpayer which, in combination, will probably pass the $4 million mark when finally adjusted.

To say those elements of government faced with the task of adjusting their budgets to cope with this demand are overjoyed is ridiculous.

To even suggest the rank and file of taxpayers forced to dig even deeper into incomes not rising in comparison with increased tax, utility, and living demands, are happy over the situation cannot be a suggestion made in any vein of seriousness.

But, lest the intent of effort be misconstrued, the thought that editorial concentration should veer away from the school systems and alight in turn on consolidation of county purchasing, fire and police, central equipment pool, and possibly the ultimate unification of all governmental services throughout the county, is well taken.

But, by the same token, perhaps such would be better achieved after the amalgamation of school systems, a process that should provide suitable foundation for the balance of effort.

Posed to the taxpayer, those people faced with ultimately footing all the public service accounts, is the challenge offered by a letter to school superintendents, dated July 27, 1977, from C.E. Holladay, state superintendent of education.

The missive contains a print-out of "22 Priorities for Education" put into order of importance by "...Mississippi school district superintendents and other committees."

The "meat" of the communication comes in paragraph two: "I am soliciting your assistance and suggestions for possibly combining some of the priorities, and your suggestions for methods to gain support of the legislators in the passage of legislation, where required, for the implementation of programs to meet these priority needs."

The 22 priorities are:

1. Adequate financing of an "upward" (supplied quotes) revision of the Minimum Foundation Education Program to meet at least the minimum requirements for "A" accreditation.
2. Equalized assessment of property and millage rate which will bring about a more equalized local contribution to education.
3. Adequate financing of the Education Finance Commission to meet the building needs of the local school districts.
4. Minimum Foundation Program funds allocated on an average daily membership (ADM) basis rather than an average daily attendance (ADA) basis.
5. Fiscal independence for all school districts (may to shall).
6. Revision of Minimum Foundation Program whereby supervisory personnel in academic subjects may be provided.

7. Increase in funds to defray fuel costs for heating and lighting of buildings.

8. Adequate funds to meet the requirements of Public Law 94-142 and other laws dealing with special education and handicapped children.

9. Appropriations for transportation for all public school students.

10. Increase in funds for transporting students.

11. Change in law to permit bond issues to be passed on a simple majority vote.

12. Certification requirements for teachers which would include the cooperation of the institutions of higher learning in assuring college courses meet the needs and requirements for teaching.

13. Expanded vocational educational services including greater cooperations between large school districts and neighboring small school districts with regard to vocational technical centers and greater effectiveness of vocational education programs to meet the needs of the area.

14. Early childhood education.

15. All school district superintendents to be appointed.

16. Competency based program of achievement required for graduation.

17. Greater emphasis on basic subjects in grades one through seven.

18. Increase in 16th Section land revenues.

19. Better system of communication with the public whereby the public may become more aware of needs of the public schools thereby enabling cooperation of the public in implementing programs to meet these needs.

20. Uniform accreditation procedures and practices.

21. Funds to provide attendance counselors to implement "required attendance" (supplied quotes) law.

22. More funds for career education. It is interesting to note 14 of the 22 items deal directly with ways and means of hiking school revenues, on a direct or indirect basis.

Only three items seem to directly affect the student, one touches on teacher certification, one on school accreditation, one dwells on superintendent appointments, one on quasi-consolidation, and finally a single thought - low on the priority list - directed at keeping the public informed.

With the obvious emphasis being on firmly applied ways and means of increasing income to the educational system while at the same time lessening the public's ability to apply the brakes of caution, it behoves leaders of merit in this county to immediately begin a firm investigation into any advantages to be gained from consolidation.

Normally we try to publish only letters to the editor from folks in our own community. However, we received the following letter and felt we would share it with you through this column. The writer was the man who hosted President Carter's visit to Yazoo City recently.

Mr. Sam Donaldson, News Department
American Broadcasting Company
1150 West 17th Street
Washington, D. C. 20036

Dear Mr. Donaldson:
It is true that there were 19 questions asked the President during the "Town Meeting" held in Yazoo City. It is true that only three were asked by blacks, although there was no pre-selection of questions or predetermined questions. All four microphones were available on a first-come, first-served basis. May I, however, remind you of something every knowledgeable national newscaster knows that 20 years ago there would have been no blacks at the meeting and 10 years ago there would have been no questions asked by blacks.

We are proud of our black community and the three quality questions they asked. They are but representative of hundreds in our community who would have found encouragement in a positive statement from you had you seen fit to use your powerful position to build up rather than tear down.

We were meeting in a new three million dollar school facility. Why do you think this facility was built? It was not built so that my children or my grandchildren could comfortably ask questions. It was built by a community who was willing to tax itself heavily in order that the undereducated could have an opportunity of such a nature so that 10 years from now many many more would have the self-confidence, the training, the national and international awareness, and the poise to ask questions.

We have seen two types of looters on television screens recently. One, the New York type looter, was taking material possessions from stores. Shakespeare said they were taking "trash," "his something, nothing; 'Twas mine, 'tis his, 'tis his." The other type of looter was undertaking to destroy the good name of a community that is trying. Shakespeare says of them, "...he that filches from me my good name robs me of that which I cannot lose." (Othello)

Time and fairness will judge which of the two categories of looters is the most dishonorable.

While I do not suggest that you, or any newsmen, "whitewash over a problem" or give praise when not merited, I am saddened by your attitude and remarks because to me they indicate a negative approach in search of something foul with which to tarnish that which is good or mar that which is constructive.

Sincerely,
Owen Cooper

We have notice, for over a month now, what's left of a boat that ran aground or what ever in Pass Christian. The boat was apparently just left and has now fell apart, piece by piece.

What's left looks bad, but the danger involved is even worse. When the high tide rolls in you almost lose sight of what's left of the boat. Swimmers and night fishermen could receive an injury. Someone needs to get on the stick and remove the pieces of boat.

In case you missed one of the big events of the year, we are here to recap for you. Mark Wilks, an 18-year-old Columbia, Mississippi lad, was crowned the National Tobacco Spitting Champion for 1977.

It took "ole Mark" five times, but he finally "out spat" the others with a mark of 28 feet 10 inches to take the crown.

Now in case you've never attended such a social event, and we have, you've missed a treat. Needless to say, it's a juicy affair and filled with excitement. And there's an art to tobacco spitting...believe it or not.

A staff member of the ECHO said she attended school with Mark, but we couldn't get her to tell us if he had taught her the tricks or his trade.

I wonder...is that really bubble gum he's been chewing all this time???

Have a nice day.

JACKSON - The State of Mississippi is putting new emphasis on Tourism in an effort to attract visitors to our recreational and scenic attractions.

I have had the opportunity to accompany members of the Tourism Department of the Agricultural and Industrial Board on tourism "blitzes" to Chicago, Detroit and Washington.

Those blitzes have been most successful through our personal contacting some 2,000 meeting planners, tour brokers, travel agents and travel writers.

We can now verify that more than 12,000 "room nights" for Mississippi hotels and motels have resulted from these blitzes, and we are currently working another 20,000-25,000 possible room nights.

You may have seen news articles recently which reported that Gulf Coast hotels and motels are virtually booked solid for the next several months, indicating the new interest in Mississippi by tourists.

Additional evidence can also be seen at the Welcome Centers which, are located at major highway points entering our state. An average of 25,000 visitors per month have stopped at the centers for the past five months, which is considerably above normal.

We are not only concentrating on out-of-state visitors, but we are also trying to show our own people what they're missing by not spending their vacation in Mississippi. Many times, we Mississippians drive hundreds of miles at great expense to visit a resort area similar to what we have in Mississippi. Then when we get there, we wish we had stayed in Mississippi.

Tourism can be a major part of our economic growth in Mississippi. In 1976 alone, tourists spent 14 percent more money in our state than the year before.

We are looking for an even better increase for 1977.

Washington report
By Trent Loft

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Senator John C. Stennis today expressed strong opposition to public financing of senatorial campaigns as being "basically unsound" with the pending legislation containing no provisions to actually "curb the influence of special interest money in political campaigns."

In a Senate speech, Stennis said, "Despite the unquestioned good intention of this legislation, all public officials are not beholden to special interest groups." The Mississippi Senator contended, "Public financing, in addition to becoming a burden to the taxpayers, does not in my judgment accomplish anything that cannot be accomplished by a combination of contribution ceilings and full disclosure requirements." Contrary to meeting "the public's desire to remove special interest from political campaigns," Stennis contended the legislation would only "add bureaucratic red tape" to the election process. He also expressed the belief that public financing would have "an adverse and unfair impact on third party and independent candidates and place them at an extreme disadvantage."

Pointing out that "only about 25 percent of the American taxpayers have along with the dollar check-off for Presidential candidates, on their income tax returns," Stennis said, "If the process is expanded to include congressional campaigns without a parallel expansion of public interest and participation, the U.S. Treasury might be forced to underwrite political campaigns out of tax monies pledged for other, more worthwhile projects."

Hospitality

Pro

Waveland's Hospitality Station, manned by Retired Senior Volunteer Program workers, is a fine example of true Hospitality. The building used is the old Highway 90 Truck Scales, which underwent renovation.

We are told that the hospitality station idea was the work of Waveland's fine Mayor John Longo, Jr. He should be highly commended for his efforts.

The hospitality station is manned seven days a week by 40 volunteers under the leadership of Mrs. Gordon Gleim, Senior Aide Program Arranger. These volunteers work in a group of two for a shift of 3½ hours. They should all be commended for their fine show of Hospitality.

Con

The State Highway Department's Non-Hospitality in Hancock County is evident. The snails pace they are taking in the construction of the I-10-607 Rest Area drags this fact into evidence.

Our State Highway Commissioner for the Southern District is definitely not doing the job he promised the people of Hancock County. Five years of waiting and all we have to show is a little blacktop and some drainage work.

The Waveland hospitality station even has a hard time obtaining state maps, we are told, to give the visitors who stop in at their volunteer hospitality station. Sure looks like there would be funds to print state maps.

The Gulf Coast Chamber of Commerce are all backing and looking for a hospitality station in Hancock County. We sure hope that their 9,000 or so members remember who to blame for so many delays when election time rolls around for a Highway Commissioner for the Southern District. The Coast as a whole will benefit from a hospitality station in Hancock County...if we ever get one.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Because the Bay-Waveland Humane Society, Inc., receives so many calls identical to the problem outlined in the letter of Ms. Patricia Cade, President of the Jefferson Parish S.P.C.A., we intended to write a similar article for publication to explain, to the best of our ability, the solution to such tragedies.

However, Ms. Cade's letter tells it better than we ever could. PLEASE READ AND PLEASE HEED.

BAY-WAVELAND HUMANE SOCIETY, INC.

PER: Mrs. Eleanor McFie, Secretary

Metairie.

Editor, The Times-Picayune:

I refer to William Boyle Jr.'s letter, July 24, regarding his daughter's efforts to reclaim her cat and its babies after she had abandoned them to the SPCA by signing the shelter's release form giving up all her rights to them. It's the same old story - blaming the SPCA when it's the owner who is the real culprit and the one solely responsible for the death of these animals. This cat, while in the owner's possession was obviously, allowed to roam and get pregnant, but it need not have happened this way if the owner had taken the cat to be spayed.

The Jefferson Parish SPCA has a wonderful program which offers low-cost spaying and neutering to anyone who desires to have his pet altered. Their number is in the phone book and they advertise in the local newspapers and on TV. Therefore there is no excuse for not getting a pet altered today. So if Mr. Boyle's daughter had had a basic interest in her cat's welfare she could have availed herself of the above-mentioned program by merely looking up the number in the Yellow Pages, but apparently it was easier and cheaper to go to the SPCA and allow herself to be led into believing the animals would be adopted. But who today wants an adult cat and its five kittens?

Due to cats breeding more frequently than dogs, animal shelters are flooded with unwanted and unwanted kittens. The SPCA does its best to adopt out those they consider to be adoptable, but when 50 plus cats come into the shelter on a Saturday morning alone and they run out of cage space, what are they going to do? So Mr. Boyle is right - the SPCA is an extermination camp for animals and so is just about every city pound or animal shelter in the country today. They are forced to be because the don't have one square foot of space left in which to stuff another unfortunate victim of man's thoughtlessness.

When people are critical of their SPCA I would like to suggest that they spend even one day there during a busy weekend and witness the insurmountable problems, the tragedy of seeing terrified animals being dragged in by uncaring owners, mother dogs and cats with their young brought in in shoe boxes, the injured, old and sick animals unloaded from the trucks and finally those so called "nice" people who adopted a cute kitty for the baby but then recollected they were going on vacation and so were getting rid of it (they would pop in for another one upon their return). Then hopefully their attitude would change for the better towards their once family pet.

The motto is - Don't blame the animal shelters for putting your animals in the gas chamber - blame yourself for being the cause of its death.

PATRICIA CADE
President,
Jefferson Parish SPCA.

Dear Mr. Cuevas:

The Sea Coast Echo has been most generous during my tenure as publicity chairman for the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre in its coverage of our productions, and the Board of Directors and the membership are most grateful.

The Little Theatre is fast approaching crisis time if major structural repairs are not made soon to our playhouse. The general public may not be aware that the local theatre is non-profit and exists from season to season from membership sales, and what profits are made from productions.

Thus, our coffers are virtually depleted at the close of each season. The rising cost of living affects the arts, as well as everything else.

To help provide the community another 32 seasons the theatre is presenting a fund raising performance August 12 and 13 at 8 p.m. at the Playhouse and your cooperation in publicising this event is most important to our success.

Thanking you again, I remain,
Yours truly,

Chamber of Commerce takes tour of farms

by JAKE JACOB

The impact of soybeans, Hancock County's largest, single crop, was dramatically brought home to members of the Chamber of Commerce last week during the annual farm-city tour sponsored by that organization.

Growing on owned and leased farm lands, the bean crop was retarded in growth by drought conditions earlier this summer, but late rains have permitted the valuable legume to recover.

In 1976 the value of the crop was estimated by County Agent John Smith to hover at $1,371,000.

This year, with increased plantings and possibility of higher yield, expected in some instances to peak at 30 bushels to the acre, the cash exchange is expected to be closer to $2 million.

Smith was one of the principal orators for the bus tour which left at 9 a.m. from Winn-Dixie Shopping Center, returning at 5 p.m.

Other "tour guides" included: Louis Breaux, president, Hancock County Farm Bureau; Charles Curtis, Soil Conservation Service; William Goodwin, assistant county agent; Norton Haas, Sr., director, Pearl River Basin Development District (PRBDD).

Lunch was served by ladies of the Hancock County Farm Bureau, assisted by Mrs. Norine Barnes, county extension home economist.

The tour started with an inspection of the new gas scrubbing plant off Texas Flat Road, and included views of the wells being brought into production in the Waveland field.

After visiting McLeod Park, built by PRBDD on land donated to the county, the some thirty persons taking the tour, saw how one farmer, Ray Lockhart, has successfully combined two types of farming though both are divergent in nature.

Catfish and soybeans form the staples of the Lockhart "spread."

The farm is on the site of the former Cal-Maine operation and houses 85 acres of water in 10 giant ponds.

Lockhart, with 300,000 fish to feed a day, has developed sophisticated feeding systems, and is working towards a continued, smooth flow of one to one and a half pound market ready fish on a monthly output basis.

Having 500 acres already in soybeans and an additional 200 more acres to clear, Lockhart has increased his legume investment by leasing an additional 900 acres in Harrison County.

Driver of the Mississippi Coast Transit Authority bus for the day was Wayne Hallstead of Gulfport.

Hallstead also drove the tour last year finding the experience so interesting and fun-filled he volunteered for the assignment again in '77.

The farm of Chester Lee, known throughout county as "Uncle Chester, the flying farmer," was the next stop.

The arrival here followed Breaux telling of his Farm Bureau and how its membership has grown to 1700 in the county, in the last few years.

"Uncle Chester" and Mrs. Lee were awaiting their guests outside their mission, "The Home of the Prisoner's Bible Crusade."

This mission, founded by the Lee's in 1973, sends bibles and tracts to prisoners all over the world.

The farm boasts a herd of 200 brood cows, which were not eager to come from under the shade trees for the chamber group, even after being expertly herded by Hallstead and his bus, and is complete with a 3,300 foot grass runway for its two single engine aircraft.

Following a side trip to the Bienville Community to view an amazing collection of "ancient and modern" farm equipment, assembled by Donald Famularo, and lunch at the Rester Farm in Leetown, the group traveled to Ardell Stockstill's Dairy Farm.

The Stockstill farm is one of the few, remaining dairy farms in the county. Most of the others, it was learned, have given up the dairy production business due to their being unable to handle the rising production cost. The farm is "home" to about 60 holstein cows and is involved with development of several plots of the new Callie Giant Bermuda Grass.

County Agent Smith said the grass grows as much as twelve inches in a single day and can be cut as often as it is suitable for haying. He said the nitrates of the soil must be replaced following the cut but that the grass was proving particularly attractive to farmers in need of high hay yields.

Chamber members next journeyed to the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Ladner to see a "feeder pig" operation. Mrs. Ladner keeps the pigs for about 120 to 140 days on a concentrated fattening diet before taking them to the farm auctions at Waynesboro or Laurel.

After viewing the Brignac Farm, which used to house Black Angus cattle, but now is mostly in soybeans, the bus stopped next at the Rocky Hill Forestry Tower.

Here, Roger Boykin, Pearl River Forester, introduced his new counterpart in Hancock, Steve Gibson, and then outlined the services available through his department.

Finally, after traversing the old sawmill site in Kila, the tour stopped at the Jourdan River Pulpwood Landing, where they were given a review of that operation and its economic impact on the county.

Airport, under a maximum monthly reimbursement contract.

"The commission is well pleased with the operation of the airport," the director reported.

He said he wished the people would realize the sacrifice the commission makes in maintaining its operation, and that as the airport grows so does the county's dollar commitment responsibility.

"There is need for more capital outlay before Stennis International Airport can stand on its own feet," he indicated.

Claiming a creditable job is being done in the sales of gas and jet fuels, Webre told the supervisors that the maximum revenue available to the county from the existing hangar was $350, a sum seemingly being realized.

"We are building a unique type of airport to cater to more than just general aviation," Webre said, indicating that efforts are being made to have the field designated as a reliever airport for Moisant and Lakefront, both in New Orleans.

"It is better to have an airport and not need it than not to have an airport and find you need one for the growth of your community."

"An airport is as vital to a growing area as a hospital or schools," the director indicated.

Webre allowed his commission intended to tackle the Global contract, and its renewal terms, at a special meeting tonight in their quarters behind the Waveland Resort Inn.

He said that regardless of whether it was Global, who successfully bid the contract last year with a years optional extension, or the county, who operated the airport it will still take about the same amount of money.

In Global's first month of operation Stennis International Airport saw 287 different aircraft utilize the facility for a total of 1,127 operations. In July of this year, the last month of the existing contract, the traffic totals were 2,887 operations from 750 different aircraft, both totals more than double those of the contractor's first month.

The port director said they were waiting to see if the governor will make any Title 3 or 4 funds available to the county for Stennis International.

"If the governor makes $200,000 of these funds available, we can parley them with Title 1 monies on a 40-60 basis and come up with around $500,000 for capital improvements," Webre told the supervisors.

Switching to nautically oriented matters, Webre called on the county legislators to give approval to a previously tabled motion authorizing Burk and Associates, consulting engineers of Gulfport and New Orleans, to proceed with the compilation of a master development plan for Bayou Caddy (Bayou Cadet).

The plan, he said, will permit the county to come to some conclusion regarding site acquisition, and satisfy the requirements of the Corps of Engineers who previously endorsed the idea.

Supervisors agreed with Webre and passed on the motion, with the stipulation that the county's only donation amounted to "...an in kind..." contribution of 20 percent.

On a suggestion that such a plan will probably call for a county facility occupying an area some 600 by 2000 feet in size, Webre hinted on the wisdom of acquiring land options well in advance of anticipated purchase times.

This, he allowed, in an effort "...to avert rising prices..." once the county's intentions become known.

Webre further suggested that the county should have "...total influence..." over the land surrounding such port development, areas to be utilized for dredge spoils disposal and the like.

Here, the port chief reminded, the county still has the right of eminent domain should circumstances warrant. The supervisors remained silent on such a suggestion, stating that the affected land owners would first be contacted, once the master plan specified where such a development was contemplated.

Likewise, no discussion resulted from a land preference description by Webre, which centered on the desirability of a lot having north to south orientation with definite evacuation features "...to higher terrain."

Also into matters nautical, but on a more sombre note, Bobby Boudin, civil defense director, said he was still working on sealing the deep hole laying offshore from Gulfside Methodist Assembly, Waveland, scene of recent drownings.

Boudin said the National Guard had driven its DUCKS round and round the edges of the hole and knocked the steep, cavernous slope into a more gradual grade, as well as lessening total depth.

"Even though it is possible to walk down the slope and we have cut the depth to three to three and one half feet of water, we have no guarantee the tides will not deepen it again very quickly."

"This good work is not going to be the final answer. The hole must be filled in with solid material."

"The dredge spoils from Bayou Caddy, even if they were available now, according to the Corps of Engineers, will make it more of a hazard as they are too muddy."

"We need to do it right!"

"I have contacted one contractor in Mobile who estimates it will take 25000 yards of material to fill. When I get his price and that from another contractor, I will be back to see you," Boudin said.

Boudin said the National Guard is to bring all its DUCKS to the scene between Sept. 14 and 17, to make another attempt to effect a fill.

Sheriff Sylvan Ladner next asked the supervisors if they intended to allow him any office space in the proposed courthouse additions, should the application now being prepared by the South Mississippi Economic Development District prove successful.

Chancery Clerk John Rutherford said such was not the case, a reply that brought a request from Ladner that space be rented for his department.

After receiving more positive offers of aid from his supervisors, Ladner reviewed the status of his overcrowded jail and outlined efforts being made to have prisoners awaiting entry to Parchman housed at some alternate location.

In a final matter relating to the jail, tax assessor and collector George Heitzmann, suggested that when a new jail is built the old structure be reworked to shunt the main entrance from its current location to the rear of the existing vault.

"The old jail will make a perfect vault and enable us to relocate all the old records from the attic," Heitzmann stated.

Supervisors stated that no consideration had been given to tearing down the old jail should a new structure be erected, especially in view of the critical shortage of space for county government.

In an unrelated matter, Frank Ladner, president, Hancock County Rod and Gun Club, after thanking the supervisors for favors past, requested they consider granting their endorsement to the proposed marina at the foot of Washington Street in Bay St. Louis.

To enable deliberation time and process, Ladner - acting on behalf of his club, left the supervisors with a letter requesting written answers to three questions concerning the marina.

The first question asked whether or not the board supported the marina concept; the second, whether or not the board was willing to meet in joint session with the Bay City Council to discuss the matter; finally, whether or not the supervisors are prepared to take any other action in support of the marina, if so what.

necessary public technology for the dissemination of information gleaned from refined satellite acquired data.

The interpretation of the data is the work of his Earth Resources Laboratory (ERL), whose main component functions as a tenant in the Slidell Computer Complex. The Slidell facility is an element of the Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville.

ERL was originally housed at NASA NSTL as a unit of the Johnson Space Flight Center, Houston. It was subsequently relocated at Slidell, clearing a way for units of the US Navy, returning - a least titularly - to NSTL on its more recently being reassigned as an element of that center.

Hass spoke of developments in the techniques of data interpretation from both Landsat (ex-Earth Resources Technology Satellite) and Seasat.

Too, he inserted vignettes concerning accepted challenges on behalf space technicians attempting to define variances in spectral signatures (consistent patterns of energy accepted by the satellite from various objects on the ground or sea). If for example, once the "signature" of a fishing vessel has been determined, a constant variance to pattern may permit definition into whether such is of domestic or foreign registry.

Hass detailed the actions of other government agencies on base, their government root and specific designation.

The population at NSTL, as of July 26, stands at 2,600, Hass advanced.

This statistic is expected to climb to a high of 3100 next August, when the Navy's new building is complete and that agency moves further contingents of personnel down from Maryland.

Hass also gave statistics concerning the disposition of personnel working at NSTL on the surrounding areas.

He said Hancock County was home to 488 persons, or 18.5 percent of the base population; Harrison County, 643, 24.5 percent; Pearl River County, 786, 30 percent; St. Tammany Parish and other Louisiana locations, 632, 24 percent; other Mississippi, 78, 3.0 percent.

He said the base population split was 1183 civil servants to 1441 contractor personnel.

The base had put some $64 million dollars into the economy last year with DoD spending 20.6 million; Dept. of Commerce, 8.0; Dept. of Interior, 3.8; Dept. of Transportation, 4; EPA, .5, Others, .4; and NASA, 30.3.

The base manager cited areas such as fire protection, as being among those in which the base had operated in cooperation with the community, and stated the expanding population of the base was reflected in its increasing concern for the communities most affected by its presence with a United Givers' goal of $48,680 for 1977, jumping to $70,000 in 1978.

According to reports, Cornell was traveling west on 90 when his car, a 1977 Cutlass, went into a skid and traveled some 180 feet before striking a utility pole in the median. The car careened off the pole, traveled another 42 feet and struck a car in a turn bay. After striking the other vehicle, Cornell's car traveled another 60 feet before stopping partially over the seawall.

Driver of the other car was listed as Abdulmohsin Fahad of Keesler AFB. He and a passenger, Elizabeth Ann Bound of Long Beach, were reported injured and taken to the hospital.

Cornell was rushed to Gulf Coast Community Hospital in Biloxi where he passed away at approximately 6:30 p.m. on Friday.

Graveside services were held Sunday at Evergreen Gardens Cemetery in Gulfport with Rev. John O'Brien officiating. Riemann Funeral Home of Gulfport was in charge.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dalby of Pass Christian; father, Wallace Gray Cornell of Grand Isle, La.; three brothers, Larry Cornell of Pass Christian; three sisters, Mrs. Madeline Cuevas of Long Beach, Mrs. Linda Blanchard of Pass Christian and Deanie Cornell of New Orleans.

According to sources, the girl was identified as Michelle Garman of 114 Lynn Circle. She was transported to Memorial Hospital in Gulfport by Mobile Medic and later transferred to USAF Medical Center, Keesler.

Two residents of Pass Christian were injured in an automobile accident about 8 p.m. Friday near Jasper Ladner's Grocery north of Pass Christian.

The men were identified as O'Neill Dedeaux, 18, of Grayson Ave., and Tim Ferguf, 23, of Rt. 3.

They were carried to Memorial Hospital in Gulfport by Mobile Medic.

ACCIDENT DEATHS INCREASED IN 1976

The 1976 accident death total in Mississippi was 677, an increase from 1975. Disabling injuries numbered 9,533, including 573 which resulted in some degree of permanent impairment, ranging from partial loss of use of a finger to blindness or complete crippling. Property damage costs amounted to $29,485, an increase over 1975.

Accidents in our state are a serious problem. Studies show that 9 out of 10, or nearly 90 percent of the traffic accidents are a result of driving errors; the other 10 percent were a result of mechanical failure or of road conditions.

A driver faces a challenge every time he starts out to drive anywhere. His job is to get his automobile from one place to another without an accident.

That doesn't sound too difficult, until you realize that there are many chances for accidents, even on a short trip. Research has shown that under common driving conditions, there are an average of 200 potential accident-producing situations per mile.

Many things go into making a good driver, but the most significant of these is the ability to spot hazards or dangers. It is necessary to sense them before they become obvious and just as important to know what to do about them in time to avoid an accident.

Experts usually say that the only reason teenagers have more than their share of accidents is that they lack experience. What they really mean is that they lack experience in recognizing and coping with driving hazards.

Join the 4-H Wheel Program and start getting that experience before you drive. The ability to recognize hazards can be developed through study and practice. The ability to spot clues of possible danger may mean the difference between life and death. For more information call your Extension Office, 467-5456.

The Bay St. Louis Little Theatre provides the atmosphere and Dustin Weed the vehicle "A Fate Worse Than Death; or Adrift on Life's Sea!" during the presentation of "Classic Comedy Capers" at the playhouse August 12 and 13 at 8 p.m.

Headlining the evenings of fun will be the three act comedy melodrama with appropriate between act entertainment. For added convenience will be free popcorn, a saloon for liquid refreshments and a roving photographer for momentos of the evening.

The Little Theatre needs your help to raise funds for major theatre repairs and has acquired the talents of local residents to provide an evening that will make your donation worthwhile.

Crew Notes

BY LEIGH KOHNKE

All competitive-minded campers battled for the honors in a tennis tournament Friday night for those fifteen years and older. First place was stolen by Dave Cummins of New Orleans followed closely by Bogalusa, La.

Saturday began with games on the beach. These are a new type of games developed on the west coast specifically for beach fun, based on cooperation of the participants rather than competition. Later in the day there was box hockey tournament for campers 12 and under. First place was taken by Ryan Ladrer, 12, of Biloxi with Dean Collier, 11, of Waveland stealing second.

Saturday night it was "Movie Time" in the Rec. Hall for the enjoyment of campers and local people alike. Three films were shown: "Magic Fiddle," "Heavenly Breathing" and "Water Rescue."

Sunday began with a football tournament. The team of Sid Leblanc, 17, and Steve Trelles, 15, both of Waveland emerged victorious. A few unusual, and new, awards were presented in the Rec Hall at noon. The "Oldest Camper" award was presented to Montez Bradshaw, 72, of Petal and the "Youngest Camper" to Ryan Ladrer, 3 months, of Lizana. The "Camper With the Most Bug Bites Award" was presented to Paul O'Neil, 8, of Metairie who unfortunately counted 95 bites, with a scratchy second taken by his sister Susan, 10, having 89 bites.

Everyone is invited Tuesday night at 8:00 p.m. to a free and humorous film in the Rec. Hall. The stars are Amos and his sidekick Andy starring in the classic "Check and Double Check." Don't forget the Buccaneer Youth Fishing Rodeo on August 20. Registration will be held at Pavilion 3 beginning at 6 a.m.

Mini-quarter is helping students

Anne Marie Rosato of Bay St. Louis first learned of the University of Southern Mississippi's unique Mini-Quarter program several months before her high school graduation last May.

The program, a summer orientation session geared to orient the new and transfer student about life at USM, exposes the student to everything from how to read a class schedule to what to wear to class. The usual three-day on-campus session ends with pre-registration.

This year's Mini-Quarter program, which began June 13, concludes August 8.

Miss Rosato, who plans to study music with "high hopes" of entering the world of professional conducting, was on campus this week learning which avenues might best help her career.

When reminded that it may possibly still be a man's world in the field of conducting, she simply replied: "The whole world's a man's world. That's why you have to buck it and I'm willing to take the chance."

For the time being, though, she will only say that she hopes her days for drum majoring are not over. USM's Marching Band, The Pride, has not had a female drum major, that anyone on campus can readily remember today.

Miss Rosato says that it was "The Pride" that got her "really thinking" about coming to Southern. "I first saw them about four years ago at the Gulf Coast Marching Contest and I knew then that I wanted to come to Southern," says the former high school drum major, the first at her school, Our Lady's Academy in Bay St. Louis.

The young flute player comes from a fairly musical family. Her father, Santo Rosato, was a jazz musician and an uncle and grandfather were musicians, as well.

When she visited "The Pride's" booth during Mini-Quarter, the young Coast miss created a small stir as photographers snapped pictures of her and several other members of the band. When two of the bandmen manning the booth stood, they towered over her tiny frame.

She took the ribbing in stride. "Look," she shot back. "It (her size) kind of helps. I'm not average and I'm not large, so I stand out."

HIGH HOPES—Despite her diminutive size, Ann Marie Rosato of Bay St. Louis, has high hopes for memorable years with the University of Southern Mississippi Marching Band, The Pride, despite meeting up with bandmen, Robert Magee of Collins (L) and Jim Livingston of Fort Walton Beach, FL, who tower above the prospective bandman. Anne Marie, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Santo Rosato of Bay St. Louis, was on campus last week for Mini-Quarter.

County Agent's report

By John Smith

CONTROL FLIES

Heavy fly infestations can reduce dairy profits. A simple way to control flies is to hang a sack duster inside the exit of the milking parlor. The sack duster can contain three percent cydron dust, one percent corral or three percent rabon dust. Follow label directions carefully when using these or any other agricultural chemicals.

STORE EGGS PROPERLY

Proper storage of eggs helps keep quality high. Eggs should not be stored at room temperature or where they will be exposed to direct sunlight. High temperatures, more than any other factor, damage the interior quality of eggs. Eggs keep fresh longer when stored in the refrigerator or in a cool, dark place.

CONTROL PARASITES

Hog production operations can lose money because of external parasites. Hog lice are among the most common external parasites of hogs. These small, bluish-gray, blood-sucking insects can kill hogs. If lice are found around ears and the underside of legs, treat hogs with a recommended dust or spray.

Be certain to dust or spray bedding, hog houses and pens at the same time animals are treated. This helps avoid reinfestation. Call your county agent's office for a listing of recommended insecticides for control of external parasites.

CARING FOR TOMATOES

Tomatoes will produce until frost if they are cared for properly. Fungus diseases can keep home gardeners from getting the full benefit from tomato plants. In Mississippi, early blight is the main fungus disease that attacks tomatoes. The disease causes leaves to yellow, wither and drop. Using fungicides properly will control early blight and other fungus diseases. Apply fungicides at seven-day intervals throughout the season. Make additional applications after a rain. For detailed information on protecting tomato plants from diseases, contact your Extension county agent.

GOOD FARM RECORDS

A complete set of farm records is a valuable tool. Good farm records can be used as an indicator of business success, can help locate weak spots in the farm business and can help in preparing tax returns and other forms. A full set of farm records includes a complete inventory of land, buildings, livestock, feed and equipment. It should contain a depreciation schedule, records of crop and livestock production, income and expenses, the amount of labor used and a record of bought and home grown feed used in livestock enterprises.

Water related deaths noted

The Mississippi Boat & Water Safety Commission reports that 79 persons have drowned on Mississippi waters thus far this year. The majority of these fatalities can be attributed to the following causes: SWIMMING RELATED DEATHS: Inadequate swimming ability, or overestimating one's swimming ability, swimming in areas that aren't properly marked or supervised and failure to use the buddy system. BOATING FATALITIES: Overloading or improper loading, falls overboard, disregard for weather conditions, improper look-out and unsafe fueling practices. The Water Patrol encourages state water recreation enthusiasts to enroll in one of the many boating or swimming courses that are offered by the Mississippi Boat & Water Safety Commission, American Red Cross, USCG Auxiliary or U.S. Power Squadron.

Roller skates were invented 114 years ago by Dr. James L. Plimpton an American, who made $1 million from his ingenious idea.

Training session set for teachers

Teachers from around Mississippi will begin gathering next week for Summer Leadership Training conducted each year by Mississippi Association of Educators. Leaders from each MAE local association will be trained in membership promotion, legislation, political action, public relations and insurance-special services. Local officers will also have a workshop designed especially for them.

Mornings will be spent discussing the functions of the district association, hearing addresses by state leadership as available and learning the new programs to be established by the state association for the coming year. Individual workshops are scheduled for each afternoon session.

Uniserv Field Representatives from each district will lead the local officer training. State staff leading at all workshops are David Barham, membership promotion; Barbara Loper, legislation and political action; Judy Parker, public relations; and Marguerite Lester, insurance-special services.

District 6 training is scheduled for Thursday Aug. 11, 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. at the MP&L Bldg. in Gulfport. Burt Barrett will lead the local officer training. Counties in District 6 are George, Greene, Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, Pearl River, Perry and Stone.

"The purpose of these workshops is to acquaint local leadership with the programs of MAE," said John Ashley, executive secretary. "I encourage each association to be represented in each workshop," he added.

Most sales persons are honest. Some businesses advertise price cuts, offer specially priced merchandise and employ door-to-door salesmen for your convenience. Others may try to take advantage of you with gimmicks and schemes.

Some examples are:

1. If you see or hear an advertisement for a certain object and are told by a salesman the object is no good, watch out! If he offers to show you something better, don't buy anything.

2. Don't be rushed by a fast-talking salesman who says the price is going up or "this is the last one we have for this price."

3. There is no way to consolidate loans and bills without adding debt. So-called brokers' fees, appraisals and another interest rate will increase the debt.

4. Never sign a contract without reading it carefully to make sure all conditions of the deal, including cost of credit, are written exactly as promised. Cross out blank spaces. When signing a receipt, make sure you received what you wanted, in the proper condition and when you wanted it.

5. A guarantee or warranty should be in writing.

3. Write down untrue statements he made and get a copy of any literature or terms available.

4. Names and addresses of others who heard salesman. Give this information to the company or dealer and ask for corrections. If you do not get satisfaction, complain to:
